 05-07/02/2027 New Zealand Nash Hash Wellington
 13-15/08/2027 Eurohash, Romania
 27-30/08/2027 UK Nash Hash, Tiverton, Devon

Important!

Registration opens 9am Monday 13/7/2026 for UK Nash Hash 2027. Mark diaries now!

This biennial hashing event is always held on August Bank holiday weekend and is one of the world's more prestigious hash gatherings, usually attracting 500-700 folk from the hashing scene in the UK and beyond, and is a definite 'must-do'. Great choice of trails over four days, all in food and drink, and just enormous fun with like minded folk.

Heaven in Devon is likely to generate enormous interest and may well fill up very quickly, however, it will be open to UK hashers first so get in quick. Passport numbers may be required if you have one. <https://www.nashhashuk.run/>

Ed's note: Unfortunately it did sell out very quickly, however, I understand that there is extra capacity which will be released on the basis of the waiting list, so please do add your name so they can accurately assess extra need.

RouteBuddy Beacon - Beta Invite

Hi all,

I'm looking for a few extra iPhone beta testers for a small app I'm developing called RouteBuddy Beacon.

It's a simple location-sharing app designed for walkers, runners and anyone outdoors. The idea is that you can quickly see your current location and share it as a short QuodWords code, which is easier to read out, copy, spell or send than GPS coordinates.

It is not a navigation app and it does not track people in the background. It is more of a quick "this is where I am" tool.

I'm especially interested in feedback from runners/walkers using it in normal real-world conditions, including places where mobile data may be weak.

The current beta is for iPhone only.

- Great Britain only for now.

Testing would involve installing it via Apple TestFlight and trying simple things such as:

- opening the app
- checking your location appears
- copying / speaking / sending your location code
- seeing how it behaves outdoors

No technical knowledge needed — ordinary user feedback is exactly what I need. If you'd be happy to help, please see me on the hash, reply here or message me privately and I'll send details. Thanks, HashFlash/ aka Sticky Willy onto Nowhurst Ln. A wrong check here would see LS and myself passing the campsite before turning back to find true trail on Cooks Ln, where FH at the end saw Ride It Baby as #3 and LS and myself as #4/#5 (on a FH for 4), although most would wonder why RIB was doing it instead :D Turning off of Cooks Ln, trail would turn slight E of S to aim back at Broadbridge Heath, finally turning fully E to Charrington Way Rec Ground before picking up Old Guildford Rd and On Inn.

REHASHING I

Spotted a herd of wild Weetabix today. Absolutely stunning.

The hare - cropped!

Back at the pub, grub (in the form of a sandwich and sausage roll platter) would be laid on by the pub, LS and myself tucking into a pizza she had managed to snag from the van just before they were going. And, with all eleven of us gathered around a single table, call to circle up was met with an immediate 'well done', and it was noted that this was the first hash from this pub. Those assembled were asked their thoughts on the r*n which was resoundingly positive. First DD, to "Here's to the Hares" to WT and Bouncer, with it noted that WT had last hared on hash #2241, or 24th January 2022! Next up, the late addition of the walkers (no sign-up, no route!) earned Beat the Barman a DD to "Down Down Song". Then, before moving on, a little Lost Property - pulling a jacket slowly out of my pocket (to strip tease music), a cycling jacket quickly identified as Ride It Baby's jacket; left at the Rising Sun, Bouncer then suggested the Japanese-style 'Kampai' down-down, asking if she was at that one. Erm - how do you think her jacket ended up there!? A D'Oh moment from Bouncer there! :D Campi-style DD as requested. With the football fresh in everyone's mind (England 3, Mexico 2), Just George (as a Spaniard - close enough) was called up for a losers DD to an abbreviated version of "10, 9, 8", instead starting at 3 to reflect the 3-2 win! Next up, his dad (Whose Shout) for "Bad, Bad, Bad" in being a typical accountant and not paying for Just George last week. And finally, so that everyone got a DD (except LK with his wine and me as RA) Angel, for being polite at every fishhook and letting the sweaty, erm, I mean front r*nners through; LS, for joining me in silliness and being 4/5 at the FH for 4 and racing back passed RIB; and Private Dancer, erm, just because everyone else had a DD! With that, details for next week were relayed (Airman memorial hared by Pompette from The Cock Inn) and the hash was closed with the usual toast. Not wanting food to go to waste, Bouncer managed to efficiently organise all the leftover sausage rolls into LS's pizza box for Angel and the kids!

When hashers fly aeroplanes...

#2474 : The Cock Inn, Ringmer - Another fine sunny evening – the assembled made the few steps from the pub to pay their tribute to Bob Luck (Airman) at his stile. After photos, the runners hurtled across the field, whilst the walkers headed north - 11 runners & 10 walkers. The runners headed off to Barcombe Mills & were halted by a combine harvester ploughing the fields – that's a new one to stop the speedsters! The hares were with the walkers so Mudlark backmarked. All was going well, until the turn, when Pondweed took a wrong trail – the pack went off in another direction & the impromptu fish hooks were ignored to back track to Pondweed. Meanwhile, Peter Pansy elected to do his own adhoc fish hook, before the real fish hook – but still didn't fish hook to the back of the pack!

Back at the pub, Pompette generously bought the first round. Pondweed gave down downs to the hares, Pompette & On On Don – together with Mudlark. Trouble had scooted off early & avoided a down down, Shoots Off Early was awarded, together with Just David – who appears to have selected his own name & for wearing new shoes & Peter Pansy – for being Peter Pansy. Thanks were given to the pub for opening just for the Hash.

Another fine evening.

23rd FIFA World Cup 11/6/26 - 19/7/26

Scotland qualify, win the first match, then go home to support any team playing England, but fans leave a huge mark on Boston.

They're gonna get through more Tennents than Fred and Rose West.

If you purchased your Scotland shirt during the World Cup, you should still fall in the 14 day returns guarantee.

We & my missus favourite sexual position is called "the Scottish football team!! ... Neither of us know what we're doing or why we're there, there's no passion, no communication & we never make it past the 1st stage. There's horrible dribbling & never a clean sheet. It's over far too quickly & I know it'll be at least another four f*ckin years before it happens again!

Africans at the World Cup:

Senegal meet France & Norway then England knockout DR Congo in the Round of 32 after drawing to Ghana in the Group stage. Harold!

Thomas Tuchel received plenty of banter, of course, but England progressed past Mexico in R16 (Jordan Henderson's campaign ending without playing a minute after being yellow carded for interfering with a throw-in while on the bench, then injuring himself during post match celebrations), and Norway in the quarter finals, while both Germany and Japan got sent home.

How the referee saw that Harry Kane penalty decision...

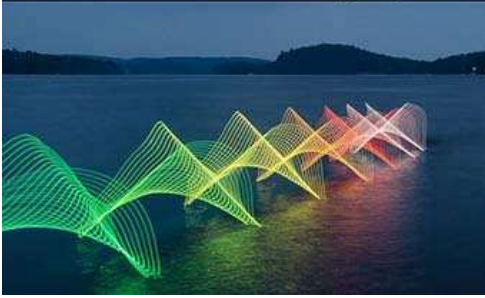

The last match up this big between England and Norway was at Stamford Bridge... in 1066... We won that one, but lost to France in the final. 960 years of hurt...

I guess this year's Trafalgar Square Christmas Tree won't be one of the better ones.

REHASHING - A hare-less sea dip!

The Motions Of Canoers And Kayakers Revealed With LEDs On Long Exposure.

#2475 : Martlets Kayak Club, Brighton - With Jaws out with food poisoning the job of haring the evening had fallen instead to myself. And so, with map in hand but little idea of actually where we would be going, circle was called and apologies extended from the absent hares for both their lack of attendance and also the lack of the promised sip. On Out would be called straight over the Volks Railway and onto the boardwalk with a turn E. Trail would continue along, through the new underpass into Asda car park (where we seemed to collect a few local children) and zigzag up the path to the A259 (the incline would see us swiftly lose the aforementioned children). Trail continued E along the clifftop path, over the A259 at the lights, N up the footpath to Roedean Rd, and turning N through the gate before the golf club. The footpath would be followed NE / N, hugging the edge of the woods (then through them), turning back E after the campsite, and over to Wilson Ave. A windy, step-heavy, trail here would see the pack taken down Wiston Rd, cutting through to (and straight over) Nuthurst Pl, then through to / straight over Nuthurst Cl, around Findon Rd and W to Whitehawk Way, then up Whitehawk Rd and yet more steps up to Whitehawk Crescent. A straight run down Manor Rd almost to the bottom before a turn ENE back uphill through to Bristol Gate, down by RSCH, Sudeley Place and on to the Kemptown Chippy on St Georges Rd. On Inn (for those r*nnng back with beer and chips in hand) would be down Paston Pl, over the A259 and down the steps back to the MKC and the seafront, with several hashers partaking in a dip before the DDs. With everyone gathered outside the MKC, I had already started to pour out DDs from the drinks provided by Shirker as freebies from the club fridge, leftover from their previous BBQs, when Rebel approached me and wondered if I'd seen some Ghost Ship? Ah... It turns out that not ALL of the fridge beers were MKC leftovers! Rebel, reunited with his beers (in part), took a seat and hush called for. With no notes, doing this completely on the fly before Shaun (who had opened for us and joined us for the hash) left, I opted to press record on my phone instead... We'll see how that went as I write the rest of this! :D It was noted again that, obviously, tonight's hash had kind of gone awry because Jaws was supposed to set it and he had caught food poisoning AND he had suffered a blowout on his car so he couldn't bring the sip stop down. That said, Jaws had done a really good job of marking it on the Sunday. And so a quick toast to the absent hares. First up - hares of the evening, Whose Shout who backmarked for the r*nners, On On Don for the wa*kers (two of them ultimately turning into six), and myself; DDs to "Here's to the Hares". Next up, Shaun from MKC who unlocked especially for us; Shaun seemed confused at this point that my phone wasn't recording when simply the screen was now off!; DD to "Why Was He Born So Beautiful?" Moving on, and recounting how Shirker had passed the 'free' drinks out and Rebel had ultimately lost his, it seemed obvious that the 'stupid' offenders should both come up for DDs. Of note also from Bouncer was that Rebel had forgotten the Hash Horn this evening and so was caught whistling instead, but appeared flustered when Oral Hooker had 'offered him a hand'! Rebel had also started telling another story to Bouncer but abruptly stopped when he realised who he was talking to :D Next up, joining the others in the sea for a post-hash dip, Just Dave turning up in (what Bouncer referred to as) his grandma's old nighty, but also attached a little floating bag just in case he got lost out there. But to keep the whole thing hashy he did actually go out there beer in hand; DD to "He's alright". Then it was announced that we had a visitor, Madame Satanne, who's actually a local but back temporarily from Austin, Texas; DD to "The Seagulls". And then regular EGH3 attendees Bouncer and Angel, for seemingly avoiding BH7 of late for EG hashes (an attempt to argue found Angel quickly realising it was just last week they had EG'd on a 'personal invite'), joined by RIB for (having previously wiped out half a spreadsheet) entering herself multiple times on the sign-in sheet, and joined also by Just Martin; DDs to "10, 9, 8".

Now, at this point I was ready to sit down and enjoy a beer but luckily Little Swinger was there to keep me in check because there were still two tankards to do. Usually we'd wait until someone hares but I'd been carrying one around for a while, and this person always, always, always stumps up and will set if there's any issues going on and stuff, and so finally Shirker was awarded his 100th hash tankard. The second tankard would go to Wilds Thing, who (on his hash the other week from Broadbridge Heath) said 'it's the first time I've hared in ages' (his last before that being in 2022!), and then he goes 'Oh yeah, I can probably get my tankard now'... His hundredth hash actually being on the 28th of March 2022. Racism note (from WT himself): He'd actually managed to do 100 marathons in less time; DDs for both to "Get a Life".

On On Don would then announce the details for next week with some dubious parking recommendations (parking up and down the road, in the car park, or Waitrose, or anywhere you can generally) - more details in the email - and the AGPU announced as 8th August at the White Horse, Ditchling, 2pm onwards (but get there earlier if you want to get lunch and have a general chat). And on that note, glasses were raised in a toast to the hash.

Wednesday 15 July

Dear referees,

Forty years ago, one of football's most famous moments happened because the officials missed what millions of fans could clearly see.

As England prepare to face Argentina once again, we'd love to help make sure history doesn't repeat itself.

We've sent a top team of Specsavers optometrists to Atlanta to provide complimentary eye tests for the match officials ahead of the semi-final. Think of it as a final pre-match check, alongside the whistle and the cards.

VAR may provide an extra pair of eyes, but it never hurts to make sure the first pair are in top form.

Our team is ready to test at a moment's notice. All you have to do is say yes.

Kind regards,

Specsavers

'My husband was an adviser to Thomas Tuchel and will soon be advising Andy Burnham. He shouts at the TV'

Third place was secured for England with victory over France, then more territorial banter in the final.

England will return the Bayeux tapestry to France with an extra panel added.

Won by Spain, Argentina saved the fight for a pitch brawl after. Half-time entertainment included Madonna here with Ronaldo.

Q: How many soccer players does it take to screw in a lightbulb?

A: Five. One to get into position to screw it in, one to kick the legs out from under him, one to snatch the lightbulb and pass it to his mate who, then goes and screws it in over the other side of the room, and one to roll around on the floor pretending to be really injured.

A: 15 - One to put the bulb in, 10 to kiss him afterwards, and the other side's back four to all stand around and put their hands up.

REHASHING - A 79³/₄ birthday:

#2476 – On On Donald's big birthday hash, Heathfield – A marvellous celebration of On On Don's 80th birthday in November had us gathering in his garden (after weaving our way through the rotary hung with past BH7 shirts) for a quick explanation that he'd held it now to take advantage of the nicer seasonal weather and light, and would be generously providing food and drink for us all, hurrah! Moving to the street we were warned of hills and ghylls on trail and pointed left where marks were soon located up a narrow, brambly, nettly twitten. Checks were called quickly until we hit the coppice and Angel had no sooner said that OOD doesn't do fishhooks than the first group of 4 returned to sweep those of us languishing. At Sandy Cross lane, the move to the east failed as we were called west, before a cunning couple of back-to-back checks required the map-holding Shirker Ninezing's intervention to get us going. The Cuckoo Trail was inevitable, as is 'knowing your hare', and so YT slapped on way too far in the belief that the erudite OOD had forgotten to lay marks while enlightening his co-hares, before the call back to the hidden track by a private gate up to Pook Reed lane. Crossing the A267, hare had managed to find shiggy, and inevitably another FH, before a really lovely trot through Darch's Wood sometimes even on trail. SN's

steady hand continued to keep us in line until we reached the High Street, where, rumour had it, Shoots Off Early led many on a roady return thus missing a lovely true trail as well as a final FH to the bemusement of those who stayed the course.

The obligatory Swinger on a swing snap

Soon full of Spotty Cat's, sorry, Scotty Totty's burger, banger and salad spread, and the Downlands ale, circle up introduced the hares OOD, Pompette and Beat the Barman, along with SN, for the hares song, and a further thank you to ST and OOD to 20 toes. [Apologies to glamorous assistant Frances, who didn't fit the song!] We're all familiar with Little Swinger and Nasty Nips passing through pack in full verbal flow week on week, but tonight they had serious challengers with the return of Granny Muff, and visitor Premature Cocksucker who know each other from hashing in Spain. Never let the truth etc, so they downed to 'A Frenchman Went to the Lavatory', before being congratulated on the World Cup and the revelation that Argentina were again being investigated by FIFA for Falklands gestures after having no shots on target in the final! Fukarwe was called next after Wilds Thing unhesitatingly nominated him without a charge, joined by Ride-It, Baby for the usual FH call. After a misunderstanding on the weekends Chichester H3 hangover trail, she had twice returned through pack without marks in penance. Sometimes a punishment, sometimes a prize, they both downed to 'They're Alright' before SOE was called for misleading pack, and revealed that he'd been mis-fingered and it was in fact Fukarwe, earning his downer after all. But SOE wasn't blameless as he and WT had exchanged some single-entendre banter in the woods, which made it quite amusing that my phone notes had corrected him to Shorts Off Early. And finally, having told me last week that this week was his last week before heading home, Just George revealed that he will be around next week. But he's had a beer every week so we sang Goodbye-ee anyway, and NN can sort that one out!

Admin included a call for hare on the awkward bank holiday Monday 31st August, and announcement of the AGPU on Saturday 8th August at 2pm (please eat before), then OOD wrapped circle up with an enthusiastic thank you to us all for coming and the hash for keeping us all going, mentioning those 80+ and still here such as Local Knowledge and Psychlepath, as well as absent friends. No, no, thank you, Don, for another great hash, on on!

Not that it mattered as the hosts were eliminated in the next round to cry baby's irritation.

MANY PEOPLE ARE SAYING the USA-Belgium game was RIGGED. I've been hearing it from EVERYONE. Terrible officiating. Very unfair! They don't want America WINNING anymore because when America wins, the ratings go THROUGH THE ROOF. The referees? TOTAL DISASTER. Some of the worst calls anybody has EVER seen. Belgium played hard, but let's be honest, they were getting help all night long. Sad! We had tremendous players, incredible players, the BEST players, and yet somehow every 50/50 call goes ONE WAY. Very suspicious. FIFA should immediately launch a FULL INVESTIGATION. Check the refs, check the VAR room, check EVERYTHING. They said before the game there was "nothing to worry about." WRONG. We were up against Belgium, the referees, VAR, and probably the fake news media too. WE WON THAT GAME BY A LOT. Everyone knows it. MAKE SOCCER FAIR AGAIN! ⚽

"IF IT'S YOUR IDEA OF A CAMPING HOLIDAY, I'M NOT BEING POKED IN THAT LITTLE TENT!"

"RAM IT WELL IN - WE DON'T WANT IT FALLING OUT LIKE IT DID LAST NIGHT!"

QUICK TIPS: HASH CAMP OUTS

- To maximize drinking time do some shots immediately after arriving. You can set your tent up after it gets dark.
- Bugs are attracted to light, so be sure to avoid all illumination and walk around in the dark.
- Glass vessels and containers can break and be a safety hazard. Avoid this by only drinking via keg stands.
- If your tent neighbors are having loud sex be supportive and offer unsolicited advice.
- A one person tent can fit two hashers, a two person tent is built for a threesome, and the family size tent is for the orgy.
- BORGs help you last all day...until they don't
- You can never have too much firewood considering there is almost always a fire ban.
